TEN CONGRESSMEN UP FOR RE-ELECTION

Ogden, of the 5th District Only One Refusing To Run—List of Candidates

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Ky., July 15—With one exception, all of the present Congressmen from Kentucky are candidates for renomination in the primaries August 5. The exception is Congressman Charles F. Ogden, republican, of Anchorage, in the 5th district, and as a result of his refusal to run, Maurice L. Thatcher, former Governor of Panama Canal Zone, will be the republican nominee and will be opposed in November by Kendrick R. Lewis, of Louisville, on the democratic side.

In six of the other ten districts in the state the present Congressmen have no opposition in the primaries. Summed up the democrats have four contests, and the republicans have six.

The primary lineup as it will confront the voters on August 5 is:

First District—Democrat, Congressman Alben W. Barkley of Paducah, unopposed; Republican F. M. McCain, Mayfield, unopposed.

Second District—Democrat, Congressman D. H. Kincheloe, of Madisonville, unopposed; Republican, George W. Jolly, of Owensboro.

Third District—Democrat, Congressman Robert Y. Thomas, Jr., unopposed; Republicans, W. O. Moats, of Morgantown; R. M. Amos, of Olmstead; Marmaduke B. Bowden, of Russellville.

Fourth District—Democrat, Congressman Ben Johnson, of Bardstown, unopposed; Republicans, Dr. R. H. McMullin, of Grayson county, unopposed.

Tenth District—Democrat, F. Tom Hatcher, of Pikeville; K. L. Varney, of Canada; Republicans, Congressman J. W. Langley, of Pikeville; former Congressman Rev. N. T. Hopkins, of Yeager; Fess Whittaker, of Whitesburg.

Eleventh District—Democrat C. J. Sipple, of London, unopposed; Republicans, Congressman J. M. Robison, of Barbourville, unopposed.

The democrats have entered candidates in all of the eleven districts planning even to give the republicans opposition this fall in the rockribbed Republican strongholds of the tenth and eleventh districts. The republicans however, have entered no candidates in the sixth district against Congressman Rouse and in the seventh where Congressman Cantrell has a fight on his hands for the nomination.

In the ninth district Congressman Fields, democrat, is faced by three opponents, one of whom is H. C. Duncy, of Cynthia, former speaker of the state house of representatives and seasoned campaigner.

Congressman Langley in the tenth district, is opposed by Rev. N. T. Hopkins, of Yeager, who has the distinction of having been elected to congress once but of serving only one day. His democratic opponent was elected on the face of returns and served throughout the session being declared unseated on the last day of the session. Hopkins is a picturesque figure, a Baptist minister typical of this section of the country. Congressman Langley's other opponent is Fess Whittaker, the jailed jailer of Letcher county. Mr. Whittaker was sent

BURLEY GROWERS TO MEET AUGUST 10

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Ky., July 14—Plans for a meeting of burley tobacco growers to be held here at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station August 10, for the purpose of acquainting the growers with the work of the station along tobacco lines, and presenting several subjects of interest to growers of the crop, were announced here today by station authorities.

Chief interest in the program of the meeting is expected to be centered around the experiments being conducted by the station to compare root rot resistant strains of tobacco with the burley varieties commonly grown in Kentucky. Marked difference already are noticeable between resistant and common varieties in the plots where they are being grown side by side on the station farm and by the time of the meeting it is expected that the value of the resistant varieties in controlling the rot will be plainly evident. The disease is held to be the most serious one of the tobacco crop in Kentucky.

Speakers announced for the meeting include James C. Stone, president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association; R. M. Barker, director of the warehouses for the association; Director Thomas P. Cooper, of the station; E. J. Kinney, tobacco specialist of the station, and W. D. Valleau, the station plant pathologist. Mr. Barker will give a demonstration showing how farmers can realize a better price for their crop by more careful grading.

L. & N. FREIGHT SHIPMENTS MOVING

More Coal Being Handled At Ravenna—More Workers
Go To Corbin

Lexington, Ky., July 15—Congestion at two eastern Kentucky points on the Louisville & Nashville railroad has been relieved in large measure, and the effects are seen in the volume in which freight is being received here, F. B. Carr, general agents, said yesterday.

At Corbin, a pivotal point for three divisions, more than a score of trains moved Wednesday and an even greater number Thursday, according to reports, Mr. Carr said. A number of men to replace the strikers have relieved the situation at Ravenna, according to reports.

More coal cars are being handled at Ravenna, and the transportation situation at the mines should not grow worse if the present movement continues.

The C. & O. here is able to handle all of the freight received, Andrew Mitchell, Jr., general agent and superintendent of terminals, said Friday.

Six or eight freight cars were derailed in a tunnel near Nemo, Tenn., early yesterday morning causing a delay in traffic on the Southern road of from four to six hours. The damage was slight and there were no casualties according to H. C. King, district passenger agent. It was stated that the strike had nothing to do with the wreck.

Corbin Crisis Past

Corbin, Ky., July 15—The crisis in Corbin's rail strike has passed, according to H. D. Magee, chairman of the strike committee. "We have the situation well in hand," he said, "and I am certain there is no longer any danger of trouble between our men and those taking their places in the L. & N. yards and shops."

Today the streets were more normal in appearance than at any time since the 1,500 men walked out of the terminal here.

Approximately 65 workers arrived at the yards Friday. They were taken immediately to the tent colony, where more than 400 men are living.

NORMAL BOARD TO CONSIDER GYM BIDS

The Board of Regents for the Eastern Kentucky Normal and Teachers' Training School, composed of George Colvin, chairman, J. A. Sullivan, J. W. Cammack, C. F. Weaver and Senator H. M. Brock, will meet Saturday with President T. J. Coates and Secretary Paul Burnam, who was reelected at the last meeting for a term of two years. The meeting was called Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The regular routine business will be attended to, but the thing of greatest importance for the meeting will be the receiving of bids for construction of a frame building for a gymnasium. The school has been greatly handicapped in its physical education work since August 1920 when the Normal gym was burned.

Thru the generosity of the City School Board the Normal School has been allowed to use the Madison High School gym. This made it possible to carry on athletic activities to some extent and do the necessary physical education work required by law. This building did not accommodate half the Normal students, but it was a "God-send" to that institution.

Coates To Lecture To Students

Pres. T. J. Coates will deliver a series of lectures to the Normal students at their regular chapel hour, 8:30, during the coming week. These will be based on his observations made while he attended the American Educational Association, which met in Boston last week. President Coates had the opportunity to visit all the points of interest in and near Boston. He will tell something of these in connection with his other topics of interest.

STATE REFORMATORY HAS 1534 INMATES

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., July 15—The population of the state reformatory here reached its zenith at the end of the week of July 8, according to a statement today by W. B. Fuller, chief clerk in the office of Warden Henley V. Bastin. At that time there were 1,506 men and 28 women, convicts. The previous high record was established in May, 1916, when 1,522 prisoners were confined in the reformatory. Last summer the population was reduced to 1,128.

Convicts serving sentences for murder lead the list. There are 375 "doing time" for this offense. The next most prevalent offense is housebreaking, for which 163 are in the reformatory. Grand larceny ranks third with 152 and there is a fair representation of all other crimes. The most unusual offense recorded at the reformatory is illegal voting. Harold Ham, who was received here March 23, 1922, from Laurel county, is the only man ever sent to prison here for that offense, within the time Mr. Fuller has been connected with the reformatory.

On account of the crowded condition of the reformatory, the prisoners are "doubled up" in B cell house.

LEXINGTON ROAD WORK MAKES FINE PROGRESS

12,000 Feet of Concrete Spread
This Week—Now Averaging
210 Feet a Day

The work on the Lexington pike is considered by those in charge to be making rapid progress. They have spread more than 3,000 feet of concrete and are now able to spread at least 210 feet a day. This is unusually good. Mr. McCormick considers that they will be to the overhead bridge near the city limits within two weeks. When this end is finished the crew will go to McCord's lane where work was begun, and work toward the river. Work has progressed better this week than any previously, as 1,200 feet of concrete have been spread by Saturday morning when this information was given out.

Just as soon as the concrete is spread canvas covers are spread over it until it dries sufficiently for a person to walk on it. The concrete is then covered with dirt, two inches in thickness. This is kept wet for two weeks and then the dirt is removed. The concrete is allowed to stand for one week and then the road is ready for travel.

All the concrete used on the Lexington pike is reinforced and on the curves has double reinforcement. When this road is completed it will be something of which Madison may be justly proud.

POULTRY EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR

Lexington, Ky., July 15—Plans already are well under way for the poultry standardization exhibit, which will be made by county poultry associations for the third consecutive year, at the coming Kentucky State Fair, according to J. R. Smyth, poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, who will have charge of the event. At least 20 of the counties that have adopted a standard breed of poultry are expected to enter birds in the exhibit which has developed into one of the largest farm poultry exhibits in the country, he said.

Each county exhibit will be made up of 32 birds, these being divided into two pens of aged birds, two pens of young birds and three entries each in the cock, cockerel, hen and pullet classes. Entries will complete individually and as county exhibits. A number of cash and special prizes this year will be offered again as has been the case for the last two years.

As a part of the poultry standardization campaign which has been carried on over the state for a number of years by the college extension division, the standardization exhibit at the fair has experienced a rapid development. Eight counties were represented when the event first took place two years ago, while last year 15 county poultry associations sent representative birds from the flocks of their members. The exhibit has been designed to stimulate interest in purebred poultry and at the same time afford the farmer an opportunity to exhibit his best birds.
